Salute to Ken Wood

Editorial

Fire Chief Kenneth M. Wood of Mattapoisett concluded 43 years of service to the town in the Mattapoisett Fire Department when he retired as Chief December 31, 1968. The speed and efficiency of the fire department has always been the pride of Mattapoisett. Selectman David N. Haley, at Chief Wood's testimonial dinner at the Harbor Beach Club, spoke for every resident of the town when he thanked him for a service that started in 1925. He served as Captain from 1946 to 1950, deputy chief from 1950 to 1962. He was appointed chief best in protection. Most important of all, the spirit and skill of the men in this volunteer organization gave the town the knowledge that this equipment would be rolling in minutes when needed and that it would be on the scene and working in the fastest time possible. Many Mattapoisett residents have reason to be grateful for this speed in their emergency. Chief Wood can be proud of this record of achievement in maintaining such a high efficiency in a department.

The more than 125 people who honored him at the testimonial were backed by all of the townspeople who recognize a long and fine period of responsible service. This dedication let us all sleep easier at night in the knowledge that, in the event of a fire emergency, the finest in help would be coming fast.

D.C.J.

The Testimonial Committee would like to apologize to all of the people who would have liked to attend the testimonial for Ken Wood had they known about it. Because it was a surprise, no publicity was given before the dinner. Because of this, many people in the town who would have liked to attend, never heard about the plans. Chief Wood did not know about the dinner until he arrived at Harbor Beach.

GRANGE OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

The 72nd anniversary of Mattapoissett Grange was observed last Thursday night with the worthy overseer Otto Kellish presiding in the absence of the master.

The program opened with a New Year's poem by the lecturer, Mrs. Ruby Barber. Vocal solos and music were by Buddy's Merry-makers.

Deputy Alton Bailey of New Bedford was the speaker, emphasizing what the Grange stood for.

Past masters of Mattapoissett Grange who were present were Albert Pemberton, Otto Kellish, Dennis Sylvia and Susan LaFleur.

Honored guests were Deputy Bailey of the Massachusetts State Grange, Mrs. Edna Handford of the State Home and Community

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

I note in the Congressional Record of January 8th that Hon. Watkins M. Abbitt, Virginia Congressman, has introduced a proposed amendment to the Constitution, requiring that Supreme Court Justices be reconfirmed by the Senate every ten years, and establishing mandatory retirement at the age of 70.

Citizens who are concerned, believing that unless some such action as this is taken, our whole governmental structure may be endangered, should write to their national legislators.

I believe that the Supreme Court of late years has gone far afield in usurping legislative powers, which the Constitution clearly delegates to Congress, and thereby has changed the fundamental philosophy of the separation of power, which is a basic foundation of our governmental system.

dence in our government was complete, has been greatly lessened.

The FBI reports that there were increases in all categories of major crimes during the past year, but by far the greatest increase was in crimes against society as a whole. Is it not the function of government to curb the activities of criminals, and to protect law-abiding citizens?

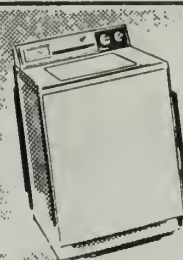

One of the most controversial positions taken by the majority of Supreme Court members was outlawing prayer in public schools. I rather enjoyed the apparent embarrassment of Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren, when Colonel Frank Borman referred to the reading on Christmas Eve, 1968, of the first ten verses of the first chapter of Genesis, when he, with Captain James A. Lovell, Jr. and Lieutenant Colonel William A. Anders viewed the earth from Apollo 8, almost a quarter of a million miles away.

"HISTORY OF FORT PHOENIX"

by Donald R. Bernard

On the date of September 5, 1778, at Fort Phoenix, the British soldiers, under the command of David Scott of His Majesty's Royal Regiment of Artillery, entered the fort and finished the task started by the garrison. They destroyed the barracks, magazines and platforms. The garrison, which had fled earlier, was hiding behind a stonewall awaiting the opportune moment to regroup. They hoped to be joined by other troops enroute to aid them. The remainder of the garrison was able to make an escape through a nearby woods. That evening passed without further incident. The following day, Sunday the 6th, help arrived from the surrounding towns - all elements of the County Brigade. Their commanding officer was far advanced in years, enfeebled in body and mind. He slowly assessed the situation and reached the conclusion that military opposition would be unwise under the circumstances. He felt that any opposition would be without hope of success.

This decision, by this incompetent officer, had a benumbing influence over the militia.
Far more important, was the fact that this left the handsome village exposed to the ravages and destruction intended by the red coats. Israel Fearing was among the officers attached to this brigade. He was a major of one of the regiments. This gallant young officer, observing the confusion resulting from the commander's torpor which was spreading among the troops, invited those of sufficient spirit to follow him and station themselves at the post of danger.
Among those to accept his invitation was a Colonel who assumed command. Arriving in Fairhaven in the dark of night, this Colonel without hesitation, warmly opposed by Major Fearing, who found that he could not prevail and prudently retired to a house three miles distant. He passed the night there. In the meantime, the Colonel withdrew. Major Fearing, now in command, arranged his men with activity and skill and soon perceived the British approaching. The militia was raw. They were already alarmed by the reluctance of their superior officer to meet the enemy and, thinking that the more mature officers must understand the real danger better than Major Fearing, a mere youth, they panicked and withdrew when faced with the enemy. At this critical moment, Major Fearing rallied his men with a resolution that awed them into duty. He placed himself at their rear and declared in a tone that gave no room for doubt that he would kill the first man he found retreating. Swiftly, he led them to the scene of danger. The British had already set fire to several stores. Between these buildings and the rest of the village, he stationed his men. He ordered that they lie close in profound silence until the advancing enemy should have come so near that no marksman could easily mistake his target. These orders were obeyed. When the enemy had arrived within this distance, the Americans rose with a well directed fire and gave them a warm and unexpected reception. The British fled instantly to their boats. They proceeded down river at top speed. From the quantity of blood found the next day in their line of retreat, it was supposed that their loss was considerable. Thus did this heroic youth from the town of Wareham, in opposition to his superior officers, preserve Fairhaven and merits a statue from its inhabitants.
